

PICTURE THE PROGRESS

Mediterranean Grill

The Mediterranean Grill is an alternative dining experience in the Helena area that offers authentic foods and flavors from another part of the world. The 2,700-square-foot restaurant was completely remodeled beginning with the sewer and drain pipes and ending with the wood stove, facade and brick work. Pictured at left is the grill's owner and chef, Ersun Oser, who also acted as general contractor on the project. Work began on the restaurant in October 2003 and its doors were opened to the public on Jan. 6, 2004. Omni Consulting out of Billings was the construction company with help from Derek Brown Construction. Gordon Zuelke, a Capital High School art teacher, painted the decor to create a Mediterranean atmosphere.

Dowling Architecture

Mike Dowling has moved up the street and opened his own architecture firm, Dowling Architecture, located in the Ahmann Block. Dowling designed the Ahmann Block in 2000 with his old firm, DT Architecture, and moved into the vacant lower level, built by Pierce Construction, in November 2003. With the 2,200-square-foot office space, Dowling was able to bring two new employees into the Helena community, adding a total of six new jobs.
